Economic Overview of 2024

I、Global Economy

Even though economic performance and inflation differed in countries due to economic and financial structural discrepancy, global economic growth remained resilient in 2024. Critical factors included milder inflation, pressure released in labor market and strong demand of AI related products. Trade recovery in developed countries which benefited from improvement in supply chain and increase in demand was especially significant. Nevertheless, on-going Russo-Ukrainian War, elevated tension in middle east and trade conflicts between China and the US kept weakening confidence of economic prosperity. According to the International Monetary Fund (IMF), global economic growth in 2024 was 3.2%, same as it in 2023.

In the United States, supported by strong consumption and stable employment, the economy showed steady growth. Additionally, the Fed had declared to pause rate increase at the end of 2023 so currency policy was no longer in contraction. Followingly, the shrinkage of quantitative contraction in 2024 Q2 and the rate decrease cycle started from Q3 facilitated stabilization of financial market. On the other side, milder inflation in the US, larger rate drops of second-hand cars, smaller price increase of clothing and transportation services, slower employment growth would bring down inflation. Adding the fact that consumption and labor market did not slide as expected, the US economy was better than predicted. The United States's economy growth was 2.8% in 2024.

In Japan, the overall economic performance was not as expected in 2024, mainly resulted from multiple natural catastrophes that seriously damaged infrastructure and supply chain. Meanwhile, the crisis in car making industry elevated, seriously hurt export and manufacturing industry. Even so, wage negotiation in spring brought 5.1% wage increase, the highest in 30 years. The dramatic increase of tourism and the investment boom in semiconductors and AI also partially supported the economy. Pressured from increase in service costs and wages, price index level remained higher than Japan Central Bank's 2% target, which urged Japan Central Bank to end negative interest policy in March 2024 and to raised interest rate to 0.25% in July. Overall, Japan's economy growth slagged under various aspects of pressure, and the structural challenges needed long time to solve.

In the euro area, even though manufacturing was weak, with increasing real wages, consumption confidence gradually increased. Household saving rates were at historical highs, which were expected to support consumer spending and to promote the growth momentum of private consumption. Even though the shadow of the Russian-Ukrainian war still existed and the fast elevated military expenses also crowded out public expensed partially, the falling energy price facilitated lower inflation and private consumption. Main European economies' tourism service industries other than Germany's also benefited from travel brought by Paris Olympic Games. The economy in euro area has already gradually recovered. The international forecast institutions predicted that GDP growth in euro area was close to 0.8%. Also, even though the interest rates in Europe planned to remain at high level till year 2025, the credit liquidity was expected to improve gradually. With inflation closer to central banks' targets, the central banks of middle Europe and east Europe already cut rates ahead..

In China, because domestic consumption and investment was lower than expected, the economic growth in 2024 was unable to reach the official 5% target previously set. Such condition caused heavy pressure on the economy performance and affected finances of local governments. Because of strict regulatory controls of real estate and lower private confidence, the government consecutively announced strong expansionary financial and currency policies since September 2024, including infrastructure expenditure increase and monetary easing. Even though economic pressure was released to a certain level, the overbuilding of real estate was still a serious problem and whether the temporary stimulating measures can remain effective in the long term is still under doubt.

The main drivers of global economy growth in 2025 include Generative AI boom and the continuous innovation in the energy industry. As central banks of main countries lessened currency contraction, it's expected that the recovery of consumption and investment momentum in developed countries can bring steady global economy growth. However, global economic outlook is still subject to policies of the US' s new government. Even though the US has better than expected economic performance recently, the dramatic changes in the US's future financial, trade and immigration policies are still unknown. Specifically, it's uncertain yet whether President Trump's campaign promise when and by how much will turn into actual government policies. However, as Trump back to the White House, he is expected to reshape the political and economic environment of the US and the globe. The intensification of uncertainty is for sure. IMF predicted that the global economic growth rate in 2025 will be 3.2%, the same as that in 2024..

II 、 Domestic Economy

Domestic demand remained stable and the private consumption grew. Export also maintained growth momentum under ICT products' lead. With expanding export, private investment growth rate improved quarter by quarter. With stable domestic demand and recovering foreign trade, Taiwan's economy remained in expansion. The economic growth rate was expected to be over 4%. The General Accounting Office of the Executive Yuan estimates that the economy grew by 4.59% in 2024.

Looking forward to 2025, even though the two major economies of the US and China face adverse factors in consumption and investment respectively, other major economies such as Euro area and Japan are expected to recover, and the economic performance of emerging markets such as ASEAN, South Asia, Africa and Latin America is also better than that in 2024. With steady recovery of global economy and renovated technology applications such as AI are accelerating in widespread use, export and production growth in Taiwan extend. In private investment, benefited from dicarbon and digitalization transformation, producers are expanding capital expenditure. Also, benefited from multinational conglomerates' increasing investment in Taiwan and stable labor market and domestic consumption momentum, the economy is expected to remain steady growth. The Accounting and Accounting Office predicts that the economic growth rate in 2025 will be 3.14%

III 、 Foreign trade and import and export structure

Benefited from the rise of global electronics' product cycle and high demand of renovated technological application products, ICT products' export performance was brilliant. Looking forward into the future, with developing countries stepping into rate decrease cycle which facilitates end demand, global trade growth is promoted. Even though new technology application products such as AI and high efficiency computing are highly demanded. Due to high comparison base, annual growth rate of ICT products export is smaller than before. Traditional industry products are expected to take over ICT products to lead Taiwan's export to maintain mild growth. In 2024, Taiwan's total foreign trade volume was US$869.509 billion, an increase of 10.90% compared with 2023. In terms of commodity exports, the cumulative amount reached US$475.069 billion in 2024, an increase of 9.86% compared with 2023. In terms of commodity imports, the cumulative volume reached US$394.440 billion, an increase of 12.17% compared with 2023; after including trade in goods and services, the trade surplus amounted to US$80.629 billion, a decrease of 0.22% from 2023

In terms of export surplus to major trading regions, Taiwan's export surplus to the six ASEAN countries increased from 17.6% in 2023 to 18.5% in 2024, and export surplus to mainland China and Hong Kong dropped to 31.7%. Nevertheless, mainland China and Hong Kong remained Taiwan's largest export surplus destination. The US's share of Taiwan's export surplus increased from 17.6% to 23.4%. In terms of imports, the main sources were from mainland China and Hong Kong, accounting for 20.4% and the proportion of imports from Japan dropped from 12.8% in 2023 to 11.8% in 2024.

IV 、 Price changes

Due to uncertainties such as climate risks and geopolitical risks, food and fuel prices had high rate increase volatility. Due to service price rigidity, CPI annual growth rate remained above 2% mostly. The overall CPI in 2024 was 107.81%, an increase of 2.30% compared with 2023. In terms of the Producer Price Index (PPI), energy and other commodity prices fell, causing the annual growth rates of both import and export prices to decline. The overall PPI in 2024 is 111.22%, a decrease of 0.56% compared with 2023.

Looking forward to 2025, global inflation pressure continues decreasing and Taiwan's inflation rate remains gradually declining. However, uncertainties such as climate change, labor shortages, and risks of geopolitical conflicts still exist, adding the rate increase of public services earlier, cause limited decrease in inflation. It's predicted that the CPI growth rate in 2025 is 1.87%. The international raw materials' price cycle is affected by factors such as the epidemic and the Russia-Ukraine war, making it difficult for manufacturers to judge future trends. It is predicted that PPI will rise by 1.77% in 2025..

V 、 Employment Market

The unemployment counts caused by business contraction or closure decreased from the previous month. The unemployment rate in December 2024 was 3.32%, a consecutive 5 months decrease. The overall employment status in Taiwan is still counted as stable. In 2024. The average number of the employed was 11,595 thousand, with an annual growth rate of 0.58%; the number of the unemployed was 406 thousand, with an annual decrease rate of 2.17%. The average unemployment rate was 3.48%. The total labor force participation rate in 2024 was 59.28%, an increase of 0.06% compared to 59.22% in 2023. Within, the labor force participation rate of men was 67.08%, and 51.95% for women, an increase of 0.03% and 0.13% respectively compared with those in 2023..

VI 、 Monetary policy

In December 2024, the annual growth rates of daily average M1B and M2 were 4.00% and 5.11% respectively. The annual growth rates of M1B and M2 at year end increased by 3.803% and 5.41% respectively, mainly due to the net remittance of foreign capital, as well as lower annual growth rate of lending and investment. The annual growth rate of loan and investment declined mainly due to the slowdown of private debt growth, as well as loan repayment of by some manufacturing exporters. The banking industry's reduction of corporate bonds and stocks held also cooled down the growth rate of investment.

VII 、 Exchange rates and interest rates

In October 2024 because inflation rate in the U.S. was higher than expected and the market expected that the Fed would be more cautious about rate cuts in the future, U.S. dollar got stronger. Since Trump elected as US president in November, the market worried about his economic and trade policies' negative impacts on trade. The foreign capital over-sold in Taiwan equity market and moved capital overseas, which led New Taiwan dollar's depreciation against US dollar. In December the Fed decided to cut rates by one yard and hinted that the rate decrease pace will be slower. US dollar appreciated again in the international market and New Taiwan dollar continuously depreciated against US dollar. At the end of December, the exchange rate was 32.781 New Taiwan dollar against one US dollar, a depreciation of 3.4% from that in the last quarter..

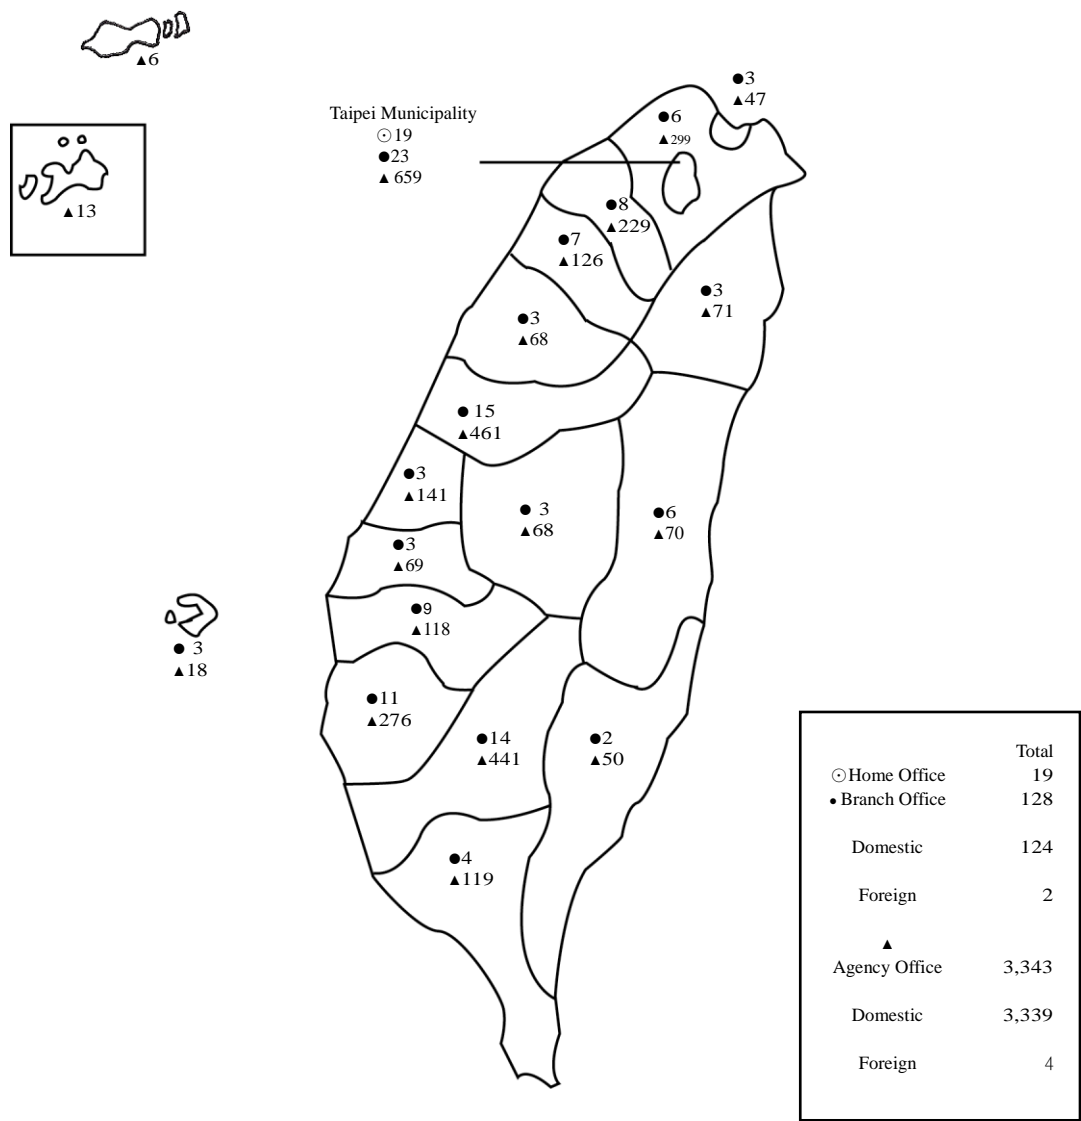

The US and Europe's entrance into interest rate cut cycle, Taiwan's gradually lower inflation rate, and stable economic outlook all facilitate Taiwan central bank to maintain currency policy which shortens Taiwan/US spread. It is predicted that the average exchange rate of New Taiwan dollar against US dollar will be 31.40 NTD/USD, a slight appreciation of 0.65 NTD compared to the revised exchange rate in 2024.

In September, as well as the quarter end, banks were more cautious about capital dispatching. The weighted average interest rate of overnight lending in the financial industry was 0.82%. Domestic liquidity demand in October was stable. However, affected by NTD's raised reserving rate, bank reserves increased. The weighted average overnight lending rate in the financial industry climbed to 0.823%. In November, due to foreign capital's continuous drop out from the local stock market and pullout to overseas, the capital allocation among banks was rather uneven. The weighted average overnight lending rate in the financial industry dropped to 0.821%. The weighted average interest rate of overnight lending in the financial industry decreased slightly to 0.82% in December, and the weighted average interest rate in 2024 was 0.791%.

VIII 、Industrial structure

The proportion of the service industry in the overall production output increases year by year. In 2024, the service industry accounted for the largest share, 58.92% of the gross domestic product calculated at current prices, a decrease of 1.59% from 60.51% in the previous year. Within, the finance and insurance industry accounted for 6.39%, the wholesale and retail industry 13.50%, public administration and social security 3.63% and industrial gross domestic product accounted for 39.62%, a slight increase of 1.62% from the previous year's 38.00%. Due to the reduction in agricultural production, the current agricultural gross domestic product accounted for 1.46%, which dropped from 1.49% in the previous year.
